

Account Details

What if I forgot my password?

Go to the Login page and click "Forgot Password" at the bottom of the page. Can't find it? Just email us at support@grandfantasysports.com

Who is eligible to play?

To play Grand Fantasy Sports, you must 18 years of age and be a legal resident and physically located in one of our allowed states. You must also meet and agree to all other requirements stated in the Terms and Conditions & Privacy Policy.

How do I edit my Profile Details?

If you need to change your username or password, simply visit the Profile Tab, located by clicking on your username at the top of the page.

Gameplay Help

Can I change my lineup even though I already submitted my Contest Entry?

You are allowed to edit your line-up until the scheduled start time of the first Game that is part of a given Contest. There are no limitations on how many times you can change your line-up.

A player in a team's Starting Lineup is missing?

Sorry about that. From time to time a player is added to a team roster right before a Contest begins. Some contests are also created a few days, or even a week, before a team's game starts. Due to these different scenarios, players may be missing from time to time. We update rosters daily to limit these occurrences.

Rules and Scoring

What if Stats are adjusted after the Game?

We leave our Stats up to the best in the business, Sportradar US. We don't close contests or finalize player stats for a contest until Sportradar US sends us final box scores for every Game that is part of a contest. On very rare occasions, a League may decide to change stats the next day, or even a few days after a Game and Box Score are Final. If this occurs, we will not revise player stats or contest results based on these changes. With that said, if the revision change is due to an error on our end, we will revise scores and ensure all users receive the proper points and winnings.

Postponed or Cancelled Games

Postponed or Cancelled games are handled differently based on the Sport. For the NFL, if that the postponed or cancelled game is made-up by the following Tuesday, the stats for that game will still count. If the game is made-up later than the Tuesday after the originally scheduled start date, players will receive 0 Points for that game. For MLB, if the game is made-up the very next day Stats will still count. If it is made-up later than the very next day, players will receive 0 Points for that game.

What if one of my players doesn't play due to injury, etc.?

That player will receive 0 Points for that contest. Fortunately, if you realize a player was removed from the Starting Line-up, you can Edit Your Team up until the scheduled start time of the first Game in a given contest.

How do Players score Points in Contests?

Visit Scoring Explanation for full details on how players earn points for every sport!

TIPS TO IMPROVE YOUR SKILLS

Grand Fantasy Sports prides itself on being fun and accessible for all types of players. Whether you're a first time user or a daily fantasy regular, here are some helpful tips to hone your skills:

1. Know the Rules

The first step to success is knowing the rules of the game. Check out the "How to Play" and "Scoring & Rules" pages. Once you've read those pages, try out a few different types of Contests for each sport available on the "Contest Lobby" page. This will help you gain a basic understanding of the rules, which will allow you to develop your daily fantasy strategies.

2. Research, Research, Research

The best way to improve your daily fantasy skills is to research the players you can pick. Start by looking at recent performances. Maybe a star wide receiver is on hot streak, or struggling. Next, look at the quality of the opposition. A point guard could be matched up against the worst defense in the league, or the best individual defender. An offense may be playing against a strong run defense that has a weak secondary – so you might want to avoid the running back and lean towards the wide receiver. Think about recent historical tendencies. You might consider avoiding players whose offensive coordinator has been consistently outcoached by the opposing defensive coordinator.

You could research endless facts about the players, teams and the opposition. Grand Fantasy Sports has a lot of good statistics to get you started, but you can find even more information from tons of other sources. Over time, you'll get a better feel of what research works best for you. If you're looking for some ideas about strategy, dozens of different sources provide advice on daily fantasy sports – and many are free!

3. Look for Value

After you've done your research, it's time to start picking a team. The salary cap is set at a level that will not allow you to pick the star player at every position. You will have to find players that you think will outperform their price. Before making your picks, skim through each position quickly. This will help give you a better idea as to where you will want to spend your salary cap.

Start by looking for value. Value doesn't necessarily mean a cheap player. If a star player costs $16,000, but you think he will perform like a $20,000 player – that's a good value! Eventually, you'll have to choose players who are inexpensive – this is where your research comes in handy. Maybe the statistics show that a cheap rookie quarterback started the season rough, but is showing signs of adapting to the professional level. After looking at injury reports, perhaps you see that a star running back injured his knee and now his modestly priced backup will see significant playing time. The more valuable inexpensive players you can find, the more money you'll have to spend on the stars!

4. Actively Manage

You may think that daily fantasy doesn't require you to manage your team – DO NOT FALL INTO THIS TRAP! The most skilled daily fantasy users check their lineups shortly before the first pitch, kickoff and tipoff of the day. The last thing you want to find out after a Contest locks is that your quarterback pulled his hamstring in pregame warm-ups, your power forward got the flu, or your starting pitcher's game is likely to be rained out. Checking your lineups shortly before the Contests lock is the best way to prevent starting a player who will score zero fantasy points for you. If you find out one of your players won't be starting, check out Grand Fantasy Sports "Replace Your Player" feature on the "Upcoming Contests" page – it makes last minute changes a breeze!

5. Watch some Games!

Statistics don't tell the whole story. The best way to see how well a player is performing is to watch him live. Maybe a wide receiver had over a hundred yards receiving last week, but only because the cornerback fell down on a big play. Conversely, maybe a quarterback had a bad completion percentage, but only because his receivers kept dropping the ball. You're probably thinking: "So you're telling me I can research players while hanging out with my buddies at Silver Sevens bar?" YES! That's one of the best things about daily fantasy sports – it makes watching the games more fun and exciting!

6. Analyze Results

Mistakes happen; but you'll get better at daily fantasy sports by learning from your mistakes. The best way to identify your mistakes is to analyze your performances on "Contest History" page. You'll also be able to identify what strategies worked best for you.